LONDON, 1 November 2010 - With gold prices soaring and over fourteen gold buying companies advertising on day time television, BBC4 decided to investigate this market. Presenter Julian Worricker invited Ashley Faull, founder of Monsterpriceforgold.com, to his show 'You and Yours' (http://www.bbc.co.uk/radio4/youandyours/items/06/2009_46_mon.shtml) and found out that the best deal offered by British gold purchasers is 94% of the bullion value. Consumers who want this deal should send their gold to Monsterpriceforgold.com.

The other guest on the show, Phil Williams, chief executive of Gold Traders UK, claimed that some TV-advertising gold buying companies pay as little as 20% of the market value of the old jewellery and odd earrings that they receive. He expressed regret that there is very little legislation in place to protect consumers on the gold market. "Unfortunately it is very difficult for consumers to make an informed decision. We always try to pay 90% and sometimes pay up to 92% of the price of the bullion."

Ashley Faull explained why Monsterpriceforgold.com is able to offer customers 94% of the bullion value of scrap gold: "If consumers want the best price, they should come to monsterpriceforgold.com. Because we have no advertising costs and are sharing resources with postgoldforcash.com, we are able to pay consumers that are willing to sell gold (<http://www.monsterpriceforgold.com/>) the best price anywhere they can get in the UK."

The monster prices this company pays are not at the cost of their customer service, as they are one of the very few gold buying companies that phone their customers within 24 hours of receiving their gold. And though the names of many competitors seem to suggest otherwise, Monsterpriceforgold.com are one of the few to actually offer cash. In case customers accept the offer, payments are always made the next day. A recent survey showed that customer satisfaction was very high, and some clients said they have received over 3 times the amount they thought they would get.
