Zylpha (www.zylpha.com) the UK's leading legal systems innovator, has added three more staff to its UK development and operations teams. The move reflects the increasing client demand for new case management integrations and a significant increase in demand for the company's 'DeveloperPlus' Support Service. It also reflects Zylpha's ambitious development plans for 2016, positioning Zylpha at the forefront of the market for multi-integration electronic document bundling (<http://www.zylpha.com/electronic-document-bundling/>) The new additions to the team are Debbi Newbury, Rob Stevens and Christopher Wright.

For over 25 years Debbi Newbury has held case management positions with Blake Lapthorn, Taylor Made and most recently Moore Blatch.

Between 1998 and 2015 Rob Stevens has worked in senior development and maintenance roles with e-Florist.

Christopher Wright also joins from e-Florist, where since 2011 he has worked in customer and technical support roles.

Commenting on the appointments Zylpha's Head of Development Nigel Spicer noted, "With the recent influx of new business and our ambitious plans for 2016, we are constantly looking to expand our development and support teams with talented individuals. These latest appointments, Debbi, Chris and Rob, illustrate the quality of people who now recognise the potential of careers in the legal systems sector. We welcome them on board and expect to make a number of other UK development appointments in the near future as growth continues."
