Outsourced customer management provider Ventrica today announced the launch of DMB its new Digital Multilingual Bureau designed to support fast-growth businesses who require cost-effective and low risk multilingual and digital customer service support as they launch and expand into new territories.

Traditional bureau services in Europe and in particular the UK have long been associated with low-value and voice-only transactional outcomes which typically fail to meet the needs and aspirations of growing organisations.

Ventrica COO Stephen West commented. 'One of the challenges companies face when launching in the UK and Continental Europe is the initial low volume of customer contacts that means allocating dedicated staff can prove to be expensive and quite often commercially unviable. Our DMB provides an ideal incubator customer support solution that allows enquiries to be handled on a 'pay as you go' basis until such time as the volume of contacts merits allocating dedicated staff, at which point we can transition the service. With each of our DMB advisors working on behalf of just a handful of clients, our shared services approach provides a semi-dedicated hybrid solution that ensures a much higher quality of service than would be expected from a traditional bureau. Our DMB not only provides multilingual support for expansion into new territories, but also for testing new digital channels and supporting temporary and seasonal peaks'.

Ventrica's intelligent enterprise technology allows its clients' customers to interact in their channel of choice from phone calls and text messages, to email, video and intelligent chatbots, all within a single powerful platform. The Ventrica DMB which operates 24/7/365 elevates the typical bureau to a completely different level providing clients with unparalleled flexibility and enhanced digital customer experiences.
