

Testosterone at the menopause

Most people think of testosterone as a 'male hormone'. But women make testosterone naturally too and can become low in testosterone, especially around the menopause.

In the Autumn 2021 issue of The Menopause Exchange newsletter, Dr Sarah Gray, GP specialist, discusses testosterone in menopausal women, whether testosterone products can help at this time of life, and the three available options of testosterone for prescribing.

"Testosterone deficiency can affect women's sex lives but this needs to be diagnosed by a specialist doctor," says Norma Goldman, founder and director of The Menopause Exchange. "No testosterone products are currently licensed for women in the UK so all prescribing is outside of a licence."

The Menopause Exchange, which was established in 1999, is completely independent and is not sponsored by any companies. It provides impartial, easily understood information to women, men and healthcare professionals. The Menopause Exchange quarterly newsletter contains articles written by top medical experts, such as gynaecologists, GPs, consultants, specialist menopause nurses, complementary practitioners, pharmacists, dietitians etc.

Other articles in the Autumn 2021 issue of The Menopause Exchange quarterly newsletter include emotional symptoms at the menopause, physical activity at the menopause, and fibroids and endometriosis, as well as news, Ask the Experts Q&As and information about Norma Goldman's menopause presentations.

If you're looking for menopause case studies, we may be able to help. Many of our members are happy to be quoted or featured in publications. Please email Norma Goldman at norma@menopause-exchange.co.uk or call 020 8420 7245 for details.

Menopause webinars: Norma Goldman, founder and director of The Menopause Exchange, has been presenting talks and workshops on the menopause for over 21 years. Her in-depth knowledge has helped thousands of women enjoy a more comfortable menopause. She's now hosting her own regular webinars via Zoom. Norma's 'Understanding the menopause' webinar is suitable for women at or approaching the menopause, women who have had a premature menopause (before age 40) or a hysterectomy, or anyone with an interest in women's midlife health. Post-menopausal women attend presentations too. If women join the webinar, they'll be able to ask questions, receive a factsheet and hear about other women's experiences. To attend a webinar, arrange one for a group of friends or to find out more information, women should e-mail norma@menopause-exchange.co.uk or call 020 8420 7245. These webinars may be of interest to your readers.
