Exterro Primed for Significant Global Momentum in 2022 with Increased Headcount and Extensive Partner Growth

London, U.K. — 19th Jan, 2022 — Exterro Inc. (<https://www.exterro.com/>) – the industry's first provider of Legal GRC software, which unifies e-discovery, digital forensics and data privacy to drive successful, defensible outcomes for in-house legal, IT teams, privacy and law enforcement worldwide, today announced that increased demand for Legal GRC has contributed to huge company growth in 2021. The company is experiencing vast global expansion, increasing company headcount and growing its 200 strong partner channel, with the company primed for significant momentum in 2022 as the drive for Legal GRC intensifies.

The growth has so far seen the introduction of over 50 employees across the globe, including Simon Whitburn as General Manager and Vice President of International Sales, where he is responsible for overseeing the sales, channel, business development and customer success departments, while leading the international business.

"Fuelled by data regulations like the GDPR and PDPB, we have seen a major shift in how e-discovery is undertaken, and organisations now need an integrated strategy, process, information, and technology architecture to govern legal, meet legal commitments, and manage legal uncertainty and risk in a way that is efficient, effective, and agile. As organisations start waving their white flags, we can step in and help customers to discover, understand and manage their data in a defensible, scalable, repeatable and efficient way and use these opportunities to build on Exterro's success as leaders in the market," commented Whitburn.

Buoyed by a strategy to increase headcount and actively recruit new partners, Exterro aims to further expand its channel network and is actively seeking new partners in the corporate market, with plans to invest heavily in Channel Marketing in 2022.

This commitment to expand the Channel is further bolstered by the promotion of Ian Rainsborough to drive growth in his role as International Channel and Partnerships Director, bringing over ten years' experience in digital forensics and IT security to the role. Having already tripled the international channel team and signed new partners, including Cyber Security South Africa, Rainsborough has been instrumental in establishing and strengthening partner relations.

"I plan to continue to leverage our strategic partnerships and alliances to drive growth and support the company to meet the increasing demand for Legal GRC. We are collaborating with our channel partners to create and deliver an effective platform solution that addresses their challenges, and we continually seek to provide innovative technologies to deliver value," Rainsborough said.

Following the acquisition of AccessData in 2020, Exterro has introduced a suite of products including Exterro Review, FTK Central, FTK 7.5, Smart Breach Review, Incident and Breach Management indicating that the company is committed to technological investment and to enabling customers to proactively and defensibly manage their legal governance, risk and compliance (GRC) obligations while maintaining and ensuring the highest levels of data integrity.

Stuart Davidson, Senior Director of International Marketing concluded, “We are in the midst of a perfect storm, with a multitude of industry changes and challenges generating a surge in demand for Legal GRC. We have spent years developing and building a robust scalable solution and our commitment to our customers is evident through our continued investment in our technology, our people, and our vision for the future: a single unified Legal GRC solution.”
