Zurich, July 5, 2022 – radicant (<https://radicant.com/>), the first sustainable, digital and collaborative internet-based financial services company which is aligned with the UN's 17 Sustainable Development Goals, is working closely with Squirro. The integration of technology enables radicant to automate decision-making processes and improve customer understanding and service quality.

The Swiss tech company Squirro (<https://squirro.com/>), recognized as a "Visionary" in Gartner Magic Quadrant for Insight Engines, links and analyzes data to provide new insights as a basis for decision-making. So far, this artificial intelligence (AI)-based technology has been made available to decision-makers within companies.

In collaboration with radicant, these insights and recommendations are now offered not only within the company but also to radicant's customers. The solution is fully integrated into both the Google Cloud (<https://radicant.com/blog/radicant-baut-plattform-auf-google-cloud/>)-based banking platform and radicant's cloud-based Salesforce (<https://radicant.com/blog/salesforce-und-radicant-kuendigen-zusammenarbeit-an/>) solutions.

"Our partnership with Squirro is an excellent example of co-creation: we are integrating the world-leading AI solutions from the Switzerland-based company Squirro with solutions from the world's leading technology companies such as Google Cloud and Salesforce. This allows us to set new benchmarks for automated recommendation processes. It is a great pleasure to rethink banking processes and customer experiences together with Squirro's experienced and creative team," explained Dr. Anders Bally, CEO and Co-Founder of radicant.

"We are proud to support radicant in building an innovative bank with a consistent focus on sustainability. With its deep understanding of technology and data, radicant plays a pioneering role in the Swiss banking landscape. For us, the collaboration with radicant offers a unique opportunity to redefine banking processes together," said Dr. Dorian Selz, CEO and Co-Founder of Squirro.
