Notes to Editors

Overnight Angels Crew

Overnight Angels Crew is a brand conceptualised by Rock Legend and bass guitarist of Def Leppard, Rick Savage. The brand name was born from a place of Savage's nostalgia, inspired by Ian Hunter's title track on his 1977 album, Overnight Angels. It was this Summer of '77 that Savage was at a crossroads in his own life. Def Leppard formed that same year, and Savage chose to pay homage to that poignant time in his life with a brand he hopes will inspire others.

Rick has collaborated with his son, Scott, and successful Fashion Designer Nick Holland to create Overnight Angels Crew. The vision for Overnight Angels Crew encapsulates a blend of rock 'n' roll meets, American urban and motorcycle subculture.
