Ashburton, Devon (6th February) –Climb Channel Solutions, an international speciality technology distributor and wholly-owned subsidiary of Climb Global Solutions, Inc. (NASDAQ: CLMB) expands partnership with CoreView, the #1 Microsoft 365 management platform, into the UK.

CoreView has recently acquired Simeon Cloud, offering their customers a suite of tools to manage, automate and back up Microsoft 365 configurations at scale. Together, CoreView and Simeon Cloud serve as extensions of any IT team to ensure their Microsoft 365 environment is managed securely and efficiently.

"Climb and CoreView are united in placing customers at the heart of our operations.", says Martyn Brownlie, Head of International Channel at Coreview. "We're excited to partner with another expert in the M365 field and look forward to providing support to resellers, MSPs and end-users, sharing our collective insights and proficiency."

As businesses increasingly rely on Microsoft 365, the demand for tools that simplify, optimise, and secure this platform has surged. In turn, organisations are prioritising cloud misconfiguration as a key security concern. According to Gartner's Forecast Analysis, by 2026, 60% of organisations will see preventing cloud misconfiguration as a cloud security priority, compared with 25% in 2021 (Gartner, July 2023).

This partnership offers resellers and MSPs the tools they need to support their customers with their Microsoft 365 installations and bolsters the offering of Climb in the Microsoft 365 management space.

"We're excited to expand our partnership with CoreView into the UK. We've seen great success in the US market and are looking at replicating that success in the UK.", comments Gerard Brophy, CRO at Climb Channel Solutions. "CoreView offers great tools for Microsoft 365 and we've grown our Microsoft business significantly in the past few years, so this new addition to our portfolio comes at a great time."
