Overland Data, Inc., the fastest growing supplier of mid-range storage solutions, will continue to supply the new Hewlett-Packard Co. with its mid-range tape automation products previously supplied to Compaq Computer Corporation and sold under the StorageWorks brand, as communicated in the product roadmaps published recently by the new HP.

Christopher Calisi, president and CEO of Overland Data, said, "We are gratified to be able to continue our relationship with the new HP, and we will be working during the next 60 days to define their future requirements for our relationship."
