Version One and the National Motorcycle Museum are working together after the recent devastating fire, to ensure that it will be 'business as usual' for delegates attending November's Document Management and Imaging conference in Birmingham, hosted by Version One.

Several worried Accounting and IT staff called Version One, after news broke of the catastrophic fire at the Birmingham Museum, which destroyed approximately 500 vintage machines with a value currently assessed at in excess of £12m. They were reassured by the company's marketing team that this - and all other nationwide conferences - were still taking place. Thankfully, the fire did not affect the conference facilities to be used for the Document Management conference.

These conferences, for senior finance and IT personnel, will demonstrate how hundreds of organisations are making dramatic savings of time and money. Guest speakers, including UK Finance Directors, will describe how they've boosted productivity and made substantial savings by using e-commerce and document management and imaging technologies.

The conferences take place on:-

4th November - Bristol

5th November - London

6th November - Birmingham

11th November - Edinburgh

12th November - Leeds

13th November - Manchester

19th November - Dublin

20th November - Belfast
