

GRAHAM PRESS HELPS BRITISH COMPANIES DO BUSINESS IN EASTERN EUROPE.

Submitted by: Graham Press

Tuesday, 16 March 2004

With 10 more countries joining the EU in May, many of which are former Eastern bloc countries, trade barriers will fall and the employment market expand.

This means greater opportunities for businesses to expand into Eastern Europe, and more Central and Eastern Europeans seeking employment in the UK.

Graham Press has just launched a brand new website - www.grahampress.co.uk – to help British businesses capitalise on these new economic opportunities.

The site includes downloadable reports and guides, events, research services and the latest European news headlines, updated every hour of the day.

Reports and guides cover topics such as country profiles, investment, getting grants, import/export and employment issues.

Peter Stanbridge, Commercial Director, said “With only weeks to go until EU enlargement, it’s astonishing that enterprising British companies have been left with few sources of reliable information to help them gain a foothold in these territories. Graham Press provides key and timely facts to help businesses leverage these exciting emerging markets”.

About Graham Press

Graham Press, founded in 2003, is a specialist consultancy providing guides and reports, news updates, events, free newsletters, translation and research services to help organisations and individuals do business in Central and Eastern Europe.

For press enquiries contact:

Simon Graham

Managing Director

+44 (0) 7786 265140

press@grahampress.co.uk

www.grahampress.co.uk