

Anna Friel/Endometriosis

Submitted by: Dee Carpenter Public Relations

Monday, 13 December 2004

Yesterday, Anna Friel, the actress, announced that she was pregnant at last . It had, apparently, not been an easy achievement because she had been diagnosed with endometriosis.

If any journalists are planning to write features on this subject, I have a client , a London-based alternative practitioner, who has successfully treated the condition and in particular has a case study who is delighted to be named and photographed and to tell her story.

The Case Study was a couple of weeks away from a hysterectomy which was the traditional way to solve the problem, when she was sent to my client. The hysterectomy was history and the patient is now completely normal

For further information please contact:

Dee Carpenter,
Dee Carpenter Pubic Relations
tel; 020 8 780 9944
email: dee@deecarpenterpr.co.uk