In memory of Pope John Paul II, C.A.G wishes to express its support of the solidarity that people of goodwill are showing from all over the world.

John Gunn – the group’s National Coordinator states “As we now live in a global village, it is becoming easier to share grief and sorrow. We have ourselves taken action and placed a tribute to the Pope on a non-religious site and many thousands are lighting virtual candles from all over the world as a mark of respect for this great man”.

C.A.G have established a link from their website at www.catholic-action.com to “Gates of Remembrance - www.gatesofremembrance.com”.

Robert Williams – the group’s Secretary comments “It is nice to see the internet being used in this instance for good. These thousands of free candle tributes are very moving to read and come from people’s hearts, regardless of creed. People now have better ways to collectively show their love, goodwill and respect for this man of God”
