

Smoking Ban all Catered for

Submitted by: Barriers Direct

Thursday, 28 June 2007

The two weeks running up to the smoking ban have seen an increase in sales of smoking shelters of 36%. But still there seems to be a denial of what is about to happen. Maybe it's the potential good weather this summer, maybe companies are reluctant to spend money on their smoking staff.

We have smoking shelters in stock and ready to go. The most popular have been the one for approx 4/5 people with grey and blue the favorite colours.

Smokers are in for a shock next week if the weather forecast is anything to go by.

"We expected the next rush to be about September when the weather traditionally turns colder, but because of the miserable summer so far we have had to stock up earlier" said Outsidesmoking.co.uk Managing Director Janine Carhart

Wall mounted ash trays are flying out the door, but people will still be open to the elements. I think there will be some personnel departments receiving requests and complaints if the cold and rain keep up after the 1st of July deadline.

Outsidesmoking.co.uk is a trading name of Barriersdirect.com. Smoking Shelters are priced from approx £1200 excluding VAT FREE DELIVERY Phone 0800 0288010