05 February 2008, London: As Valentine's Day draws closer many will consider taking their loved one away on a special trip. By-car.co.uk, the online car hire (<http://www.by-car.co.uk/>) website and im-mietauto.de, its German counterpart, can help holidaymakers who are planning a mini break at this time of the year.

The website provides guidance to the types of hire car available over Valentine's Day. If users are looking to organise a special trip, car hiring (<http://www.by-car.co.uk/car-hire-guide/>) for Valentine's Day could involve hiring a luxury vehicle or a convertible, to make it a holiday to remember.

For people wondering about where to go for a Valentine's Day break, the destination guides on by-car.co.uk can offer some helpful suggestions. Many people will consider Paris or Rome, but for something a little different by-car.co.uk's Guide to Austria (<http://www.by-car.co.uk/austria/>) will offer alternative location ideas, with the Johann Strauss Ball taking place on 14th February in Vienna. Another option could be to head to Roquemaure in France for the Lovers Festival held between the 15th and 17th February. Or there is the Verona In Love festival, between the 9th and 13th February in Verona, Italy, based on Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet.

Therefore, anyone who is planning a romantic trip for Valentine's Day should visit by-car.co.uk for some helpful information.
