Atom Media and PR (<http://www.atommpr.com>) – a leading UK advertising and PR agency specialising in representing select clients from within the Home Interest and Gardens & Leisure sectors, announces exciting office move. The property, which sits in the heart of the beautiful riverside area of Ely in Cambridgeshire has been fully restored and designed to meet Atom's needs.

The new offices (shown right along with other views of Ely) allow room for Atom's expansion as their client portfolio continues to grow. Two new clients appointed Atom in its first week at the new office taking their client portfolio to over thirty.

Managing Director Roger Illsley says: 'Although the move is set against the backdrop of gloomy economic news, it is a reflection of the strength of this sector; especially the top end of the market that the majority of our clients target. The other reason for our continued growth is the realisation by companies that now, more than ever, their marketing activity needs to be as well planned and as effective as possible. This, and our commitment to provide clients with a cost effective full service second to none, puts Atom and its clients in a very strong position.'
