TheHut.com|<http://www.thehut.com>] is giving away £5,000 of money-off vouchers in its cracking Christmas competition. The UK's fifth largest online entertainment retailer, TheHut.com is offering over 1,000 lucky winners exclusive discounts to spend on its extensive range of leisure and home entertainment products.

TheHut.com offers a number of entertainment and lifestyle products, including the latest Blu-ray films, DVDs such as Kung Fu Panda, books, games and consoles including the hottest new World of Warcraft game, as well as a range of high-tech electronics and gadgets.

Caroline Austen, Head of Marketing at TheHut.com|<http://www.thehut.com>], comments, "The run up to Christmas is a busy and expensive time for most people. Our festive competition aims to make Christmas shopping that bit easier for our lucky winners and help them save money, which is crucial given the current climate. There are over a thousand discount vouchers up for grabs so a huge number of people can ensure they get great gifts at great prices this Christmas."

The first 5,000 entrants will receive a 50p voucher to redeem against any product at TheHut.com.

To enter the competition, visit www.thehut.com and answer the simple question. Terms and conditions apply and the closing date is 12 December 2008.
