

Henley retains top rankings for executive MBA and full-time MBA

Submitted by: pr-sending-enterprises

Thursday, 27 November 2008

Henley Business School, in separate MBA ranking reports by the Financial Times on executive MBAs and by the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU) on full-time MBAs, has remained at the top of several categories vital to successful students.

In the Financial Times Executive MBA

(<http://www.henley.reading.ac.uk/management/mba/mgmt-executivemodularmba.asp>) Rankings, Henley was rated overall in the top 5 in the UK, top 15 in Europe and top 50 globally. For career progression it was rated number 1 in the UK and 5 in the world, with salary increase and attracting women onto the courses also significant results.

In the Economist Intelligence Unit (EIU) Full-Time MBA

(<http://www.henley.reading.ac.uk/management/mba/mgmt-henleyexecutivemba.asp>) Rankings, Henley was rated as number 1 in the world for faculty and student quality, personal development and educational experience, potential to network and in the breadth of its alumni network.

Professor Christopher Bones, Dean, said: "This provides external testimony to many of those aspects of our MBA programmes of which we are most proud... we retain some great ranking positions in an increasingly competitive business school market. The team are working hard already to ensure we get even further up the rankings for 2009. The benefits that come from our merger with The University of Reading will help to strengthen our position."

Earlier this year, Henley - then Henley Management College - also received the top score for student rating of programme content in the EIU's first ranking of distance learning MBA (<http://www.henley.reading.ac.uk/management/mba/mgmt-distancelearningmba.asp>) courses.

About Henley Business School

Henley Business School (<http://www.henley.reading.ac.uk/>) was formed in the August 2008 from the merger of Henley Management College, itself founded in 1945, and the Business School at the University of Reading. Henley is one of the longest established business schools and the world's third largest supplier of MBA education, delivering business education to managers in more than 112 countries worldwide with in excess of 5,400 people studying for a Henley MBA at any one time.

Henley Business School is one of Europe's largest full service business schools and offers a comprehensive range of management programmes from undergraduate to board level. Encompassing the world-ranked Henley MBA, executive and distance learning MBAs, DBAs, PhDs, MScs, BScs, BAs and its internationally renowned open and tailored executive education, it provides learning and development opportunities from the start of a career through to senior executive levels, from developing strategy to managing change and achieving sustainable, responsible success. With expertise in the development and delivery of solutions to the management and leadership challenges of our times, it is also one of the very few international business schools to hold triple accredited status (AMBA, EQUIS, AACSB).

Henley Business School PR Contact:

Judith Hunt
Communications Management
Claverton House
2 Harpenden Road
St. Albans
AL3 5AB
+44 1727 737989
www.henley.reading.ac.uk