

Here's Something You Can Both Enjoy On Valentine's Day

Submitted by: Cryptoland PR (FKA Momentous PR)

Friday, 23 January 2009

- Being The Star Of Your Own Erotic Or Romantic Novel From U Star Novels -

If you thought Valentines Day was just for the ladies then think again. U Star Novels (<http://www.ustarnovels.com>), the UK's only publisher of personalised romance and erotic novels (<http://www.ustarnovels.com>) have specially crafted a range of seven novels that can be personalised to make you and your Valentine the star.

By visiting <http://www.ustarnovels.com> customers answer 26 questions about themselves and their Valentine, think eye and hair colour, favourite food, music, sexual positions and so on, providing us with the information required to personalise the novel.

These details are then woven through our range of seven pre-written novels, ranging in sauciness and delivered to your door in time for Valentine's Day – for £26.95 including postage and package.

Whilst the 'romance' genre is something usually enjoyed by the ladies, U Star Novels can offer the lads a little joy on the most romantic day of the year with their latest erotic title, 'Amsterdam Lessons'.

Shaped entirely by feedback from their customers, U Star Novels (<http://www.ustarnovels.com>) found that people were looking for something more sexually charged with the sex scenes written by a female author. U Star Novels commissioned female erotic writer, Sylvia Hadfield who penned her first erotic novel for the business, providing readers with some racy action between the pages.

The title was sampled with some of our customers prior to launch and here is some of the feedback we've had:

"...I would say that you have pitched the sexual content perfectly. It contains the kind of sexual experiences that broadminded consenting adults "might" indulge in, or at the very least would fantasise about."

"... The book is fantastic! So sexy, everytime I picked it up I tingled all over just at the thought of what was going to happen next! I wanted this to really be happening with us, but it did feel as if I was reading something we were doing."

"...the book was both sexual and erotically charged and we thoroughly enjoyed it."

Katie Olver, founder of U Star Novels said: "Our novels have been specially crafted to appeal to a wide audience. If you are looking for a romantic and sensual story for your Valentine, then Safari Nights of Indecent in Italy will definitely do the trick. But if you are looking for something to spice things up on Valentine's Day, our new title, Amsterdam Lessons will certainly give you some food for thought!"

To find out more or to experience a free excerpt, please visit: <http://www.ustarnovels.com>

- ends -

For further information, please contact:

Katie Olver

U Star Novels

T: +44 (0) 208 977 0627

M: +44 (0) 781 484 5376

E: kolver@ustarnovels.com