The employment law specialists (http://www.ms-solicitors.co.uk/employment_law/index.html) at Martin Searle Solicitors have opened a new office in Croydon to provide affordable and specialist employment law advice to local businesses and employees.

Since Martin Searle Solicitors' (<http://www.ms-solicitors.co.uk>) launch in 2004, the firm has built a strong reputation for service and value with clients ranging from individuals with workplace discrimination (http://www.ms-solicitors.co.uk/employment_law/discrimination.html) problems, to businesses and local authorities employing thousands. Martin Searle Solicitors works alongside a team of Human Resources Consultants to offer a seamless and cost-efficient service where businesses require both legal and practical HR expertise for instance on restructures, disciplinary procedure and help with recruiting staff.

Based at Bedford Park in East Croydon, the office will be run by Martin Searle Solicitors' director Fiona Martin and local employment law solicitor Marsha Thompson.

Fiona Martin said: "We have many clients from Croydon, including large employers, and there is huge demand in this area for our specialist employment law services. There is real benefit for clients – both employees and employers - in being able to get face-to-face employment law advice (http://www.ms-solicitors.co.uk/employment_law/index.html) closer to home."

She added: "To help employers safely navigate their way through these difficult times we will be offering our full range of employment law services. In addition, we offer a new fixed-fee redundancy law advice package where clients can get the professional help they need as cost effectively as possible."

Martin Searle Solicitors also provides expert help with community care law, a vital legal service covering everything from problems with charges and funding for nursing home accommodation, to waiting lists, eligibility and hospital discharge. Thanks to its growing reputation in this area, the firm's community care law practice now has a national client base and is one of only a small number of firms in the south with a Legal Services Commission specialist quality mark in recognition of its quality advice. The firm also offers expert advice on landlord and tenant problems.
