

In Search of an Escape

As the news of the worsening recession hits us daily, tensions in households around the country are rising.

Coupled with the appalling exchange rate with the Euro, making Euro zone travel prohibitive, and the threat of Swine Flu, there has never been a better time, or indeed a more necessary time to take a short break in the UK.

Recent tourist industry surveys are reporting that 2009 will be the year of the "staycation" when folks ditch foreign holidays and use home as a base for day trips and short breaks.

So...here at Ragdale Hall, we are packing in the value into our packages, keeping standards of service at the highest level and continually reinvesting in our facilities, so as to provide an escape from everyday life at AFFORDABLE PRICES.
