Musical aficionados have the chance to hear from the world's finest soloists at a series of events in Paris next month, as the New Soloists Festival takes place.

Held at the Serres d'Auteuil greenhouse on an annual basis, the symposium aims to showcase the talents of some of the most promising flute, cello, viola, violin and piano soloists in a truly unique setting.

The 2009 edition of the festival is due to include performances by a wide array of up and coming artists from France, Switzerland and Russia, including JF Neuburger, B Chamayou, EM Couturier and I Tcheteuev.

Now in its 10th year, the event will also provide a platform for a number of established and world-renowned soloists to show off their talents. Among them are G Hoffman, M Beroff, H Demarquette and F Boffard.

"This year, the public will discover pieces of music which are not often played and contemporary work which offer a new way of listening to mainstays of the repertoire," the showcase's organisers explain.

The events will take place between from 18th June for 11 days. Tickets are available now from €10.

Located on the Avenue de la Porte d'Auteuil, the Serres d'Auteuil can easily be reached from the wide array of luxurious hotels in Paris.

Visitors are advised to secure their hotel rooms as early as possible to avoid disappointment.
