Mumsnet.com, the leading parenting website with over 850,000 unique monthly visitors, have recently voted Ragdale Hall -Top UK Spa in their Mumsnet.com Best Awards 2009.

Members of the website, which according to The Times is “the country’s most popular meeting point for parents”, voted for their favourite spa in the UK and Ireland and many posted reviews on the website:

“Ragdale Hall is the ultimate haven for relaxation. You can wander round in a fluffy white dressing gown – reading, sleeping, eating, getting massaged or even doing something more active like swimming or tennis. The food is very good and there’s certainly plenty of choice. Highly recommended.”

“This is a strictly grown up place – no children and no mobiles outside your own bedroom”

“All very relaxed and friendly – would recommend it for a hen party or a break from the kids.”

“I went when I was pregnant and had a lovely time. I’m planning to go back for a birthday treat this year.”
