Professional stock market investor and author, Stephen Sutherland, has announced today that his company ISACO, which specialises in ISA Trend Investing, is applying to become regulated by the Financial Services Authority (FSA).

'We have decided that as our company goes from strength to strength we want to offer our clients complete peace of mind and seeking FSA regulation seems like a natural next step in our expansion plans,' Sutherland explains. 'We want to show our clients that we are completely committed to helping them achieve their financial goals.'

The news certainly seems to be going down well with Stephen's clients.

Jeff Hall from Bucks said: "I am delighted that ISACO have chosen to become FSA regulated and this will strengthen their products & services. It also confirms my belief that I made the right choice in deciding to invest in them."

And David Childs from Black Heath, London said: "I've learnt more in the last six months reading the daily reports than in the previous 15 years, they have my full support"

Another client, Declan Hughes (www.kidskickers.co.uk), from County Tyrone, Northern Ireland, also spoke of his backing for Sutherland's plans: "As a client I would just like to say that I am 100% behind ISACO's decision to be FSA regulated. It will give the company a lot more respectability and clout."

"Our mission as a company is to become the most admired and respected ISA Trend Investing Support Company in the UK. And our mission to our clients is to help make their financial dreams a reality, coupled with the complete peace of mind that FSA regulation will bring," says Sutherland.
