Busy Londoners can now sort out their love lives in the shortest time possible, thanks to an innovative new dating service (<http://www.thedivineimage.co.uk>) provided by The Divine Image (<http://www.thedivineimage.co.uk>) (www.thedivineimage.co.uk). It is perfect for busy single (<http://www.thedivineimage.co.uk/site/testimonials.asp>) professionals without the time or the inclination to spend whole evenings scoping bars or on date after fruitless dates. Founder and data protection lawyer, Camelia Fredericks (<http://www.thedivineimage.co.uk/site/aboutus.asp>) devised her dating programme after talking to friends about the perils of dating in London and realising how the culture in London makes flirting (<http://www.thedivineimage.co.uk/site/DatingConsultations.asp>) so hard to do.

"Coming from a Malaysian background, I did not realise until I left Malaysia what a strong culture of friendliness, warmth and passion we had. When I arrived in London, I was in a for a rude shock. I realised there was something different about me and the average Londoner. The difference is partly cultural but also to a large extent it is about flirting. Flirting is not just about finding a date, it is a state of mind, a positive and optimistic state of mind!"

Camelia believes that the number of singles in London are increasing as we are failing to understand that men and women have different needs. Her advice is based on solid research into human behaviour, sexuality, body language and the essential differences between the ways men and women think and communicate.

You will be learn how to meet that perfect someone, what you should wear and do on the first date, what you should talk about, how you can make a great impression, how you can turn your partner on and make him or her fall head over heels in love with you. Camelia promises that she can teach you the art of flirting, how to read your own and others' body language, so you can shamelessly manipulate your way into (just about) anyone's heart and also teach you the techniques of seducing effortlessly. For the more adventurous, this 'dating guru' will accompany you to singles events, wines bars, art galleries and other 'dating' venues to help you put your skills into action. She will also help you select the most intimate restaurants and provide expert advice on choosing the perfect wine for that perfect and most romantic date!
