--New turnkey solution, utilizing SuccessFactors Express, delivers built-in best practice processes and premium content without traditional implementation hassles

MINNEAPOLIS, July 20, 2009 -- Ceridian Corporation, a leading provider of managed human resource, employee benefits administration, tax filing, payroll outsourcing and talent management solutions, announced today it will soon be releasing Ceridian Performance Management Express, its powerful new Software as a Service (SaaS) performance management application. Performance Management Express is built upon SuccessFactors (Nasdaq: SFSP) cloud platform, enabling companies to easily manage employee goal setting and performance reviews using the industry's recognized leader in Web-based performance management. And best of all, it's affordable, secure, and scalable with next generation technologies delivered by cloud computing.

"Ceridian Performance Management Express is a perfect solution to extend our rich portfolio and help our customers address their performance management needs," notes Keith Strodman, executive vice president and general manager, Ceridian HRO. The beauty of Performance Management Express is that it instantly transforms a manual review process into an automated one that all but ensures 100 percent participation. It is so simple to administer and use that customers can be up and running almost instantly."

Since Performance Management Express is a SaaS solution, customers do not need to acquire any expensive hardware or software in order to use the application. The Web-based solution means all customer information is hosted by a highly secure, certified datacenter - commonly referred to as cloud computing. All software updates are remotely managed with no need for any onsite technical expertise, constantly giving customers the best solution set. Performance Management Express comes with all the tools you need to complete a meaningful performance review including a built-in process, a review form, job roles, approvals and notifications. All you have to do to begin a best-practices performance review cycle is enter your employee information. The application is integrated with your Ceridian HR/Payroll solution.

Performance Management Express utilizes the SuccessFactors's performance management platform. SuccessFactors produces one of the industry's finest streamlined performance management applications. SuccessFactors' family of solutions means Performance Management Express users have a simple upgrade path if they add more employees or decide they need additional processes and more advanced requirements.

"Ceridian has an outstanding track record of bringing the right solutions to the market and a strong knowledge and experience around human capital and performance management," said Paul Albright, chief marketing officer, SuccessFactors. "We are really excited that Ceridian has chosen us to help even more companies transform their workplace by getting all their employees focused on the right things to achieve success."

Ceridian Performance Management Express is a full featured, easily implemented and affordable performance management solution. For more information contact Ceridian at 800-729-7655.
