International entrepreneurs and experts will share insider strategies at life-changing TIME Event

The most impressive array of international business experts and entrepreneurs ever assembled in the UK will take to the stage in London in September to share their success strategies with the public in a groundbreaking event designed to boost the British economy.

The Internet Marketing & Entrepreneur Event (TIME) is the first show of its kind to be held in the capital and promises around 500 visitors a life-changing weekend of advice and presentations on developing new income streams, harnessing the power of social media, increasing wealth via the internet, making money from property investment, generating new business leads, marketing techniques, sales strategies and harnessing the power of persuasion and positivity.

A star-studded line-up of more than 20 sought-after speakers from the UK, the USA and further afield will join forces for the inspirational event, which runs from September 2-5 at the Ibis Earls Court Hotel, London. Many of them attract delegates to travel thousands of miles to hear them speak individually at events like these and charge thousands of pounds for tickets.

The educational and entertaining TIME Event is being organised by UK-based entrepreneur Mark Nathwani and US-based internet marketing specialist Larry Loik, one of Anthony Robbins' most successful protégés.

Nathwani, an established expert in the internet marketing sector with a track record in UK junior stock market ofex and property wealth creation, wants to restore the battered economy by helping people take advantage of business and wealth opportunities that have never previously been shared in one place.

"This event will be unlike anything Britain has witnessed before. It will be a life-changing weekend for those who attend. Anyone, regardless of their age, income, culture or experience, can get themselves out of a rut with the ideas and strategies that will be demonstrated during the event," he says.

"I guarantee that delegates will walk away with vast amounts of useful knowledge immediately. Coaching on this scale is an investment in the future for people who want to take control and earn money from their own home."
