Hollywood actress Gwyneth Paltrow has just landed a reported £600,000 music contract and BoyleSports.com (<http://www.boylesports.com>) is 9/2 that she outshines husband Chris Martin with her first album.

Paltrow, married to the Coldplay front man, has landed the lucrative deal and the bookmaker is offering 9/2 that her first album enters the UK charts higher than Coldplay's new album, reportedly planned for release this autumn.

The Academy award winner is 2/1 to have a UK number one single in 2011 and 5/1 is on offer that her new album reaches number one in the UK.

Paltrow, who does have singing experience in the past following appearances on the hit show Glee and some chart success abroad, is 3/1 to collaborate with Coldplay and release a single with the band and 20/1 to release a single with rapper Jay-Z.

"Gwyneth Paltrow may just be seen as a Hollywood actress but she certainly does have some singing talent," said BoyleSports.com Public Relations Executive Nicola McGeady.

"There could be some interesting discussions in the Martin-Paltrow household over the coming year if she happens to upstage Coldplay in 2011."
