All 6 models in this range can be adapted to provide the ideal stove according to customers' tastes and needs. As well as glass and soapstone offerings it is also possible to have various leg and base variants as well.

In addition, optional extra glass panels can give convection heat and the ability to lower the front glass surface temperature. The Jotul F361, shown right, has a cast iron base with removable shelf. The sleek design, with glassfront, looks beautiful with clean lines and classic proportions. The Jotul F363, pictured left, stands on an elegant pedestal with a flue outlet on top and it has the optional turn plate which can be rotated fully through 360 degrees, making the flames visible from every angle of the room.

Specifications include;

1150mm high, 442mm wide and 452mm deep

Finish: Black paint. Heat Output: Min 3.5 kW Rated 5.5 kW

Max 7 kW

The suggested retail price starts as low as £2073.82 inc VAT for the F369.

Fuel saving, cost saving, climate saving and heat efficiency is the key to wood burning, and Jotul is an expert in delivering cutting edge stoves year on year.
