

Historical members club in London now open to all

Submitted by: The Army and Navy Club Limited

Friday, 4 May 2012

Exclusive Private Members club the Army & Navy club now open to non-military non-members for private functions, including weddings.

For its 175th anniversary, the Army & Navy Club in London (more commonly known as “the Rag” to its members) is opening its doors to non-members for the first time. As well as offering this exclusive venue to the public, as part of the anniversary celebrations the Rag is also giving newlyweds a chance to host a drinks reception at St James Square gardens.

Situated in relaxed refinement in the heart of St James's, the Rag prides itself on offering a unique combination of the ambience traditionally found in an officers' mess, with the comfort and facilities of an exclusive hotel with 76 air-conditioned bedrooms. Renowned for its prestigious relationship with the Royal Army and Navy since 1837, the Rag is mostly known for its exceptional service and homely feel amongst its members. Now, non-members will have a chance to use this exclusive venue to host their weddings for the first time since the Army & Navy club opened. Situated in the heart of London the Rag offers civil Wedding Ceremonies and exclusive use of St James square garden for wedding photographs.

The Rag's dedicated banqueting team provide exceptional service and style, and offer a range of packages to work within your budget along with a huge network of trusted retailers and services associate, offering significant discounts for bridal and groom wear, flowers, chauffeurs and more.

To find out more please contact the Wedding team at weddings@therag.co.uk or phone 020 7827 8023.

Feel free to visit The Rag www.therag.co.uk - although the website is under reconstruction

For Editors - For more information, high quality images or quotes, please contact Lisa at lisa@therag.co.uk or phone 0207 827 8031

-Ends-