

Confused.com to offer free breakdown cover with any van insurance policy

Submitted by: pr-sending-enterprises

Friday, 8 June 2012

Confused.com is launching a new promotion giving away free breakdown cover with any van insurance policy purchased through the site.

The free breakdown cover includes up to two call outs for home assistance, within one mile of a customer's home address; up to four call outs for road side assistance; payment for alternative travel up to £100 to the customer's chosen destination; alternative accommodation up to £60 per person for one night and recovery for 23 foot caravans/ trailers.

Breaking down without cover could cost hundreds of pounds to be rescued. As purse strings are tightened and finances reviewed, drivers no longer need to think of breakdown cover as a costly extra due to Confused.com's new promotion.

The promotion began on 6 June and will run until 31 July, so anyone buying a van insurance (<http://www.confused.com/van-insurance>) policy during this period will get free breakdown cover. Whether people are using their van for business or personal use, Confused.com searches the market's top insurance providers to help them to find a competitive quote.

Confused.com's van insurance covers small vans, medium vans, commercial vans, pickup vans and the commonly known transit van, offering a wide range of insurance cover for the customers various van needs.

The expert price-comparison site offers comparison on van insurance policies, allowing van drivers to get prices from 20 of the most competitive and market-leading brands, such as Aviva, Highway, Ageas, RSA.

A further benefit for buying van insurance from Confused.com is that any customer who buys any van insurance product through the website will receive 1,000 Nectar points, giving a little helping hand in these difficult times. All Nectar points will be awarded within the first 90 days of purchase and the points will go straight onto the customer's card - so they can boost their Nectar balance by simply buying insurance.

Alex Higgs, Product Manager at Confused.com said: "As people's purse strings are still tight, we want to help our customers save money, but also make their travel journeys as safe as possible. So by simply buying essential van insurance customers can help prevent themselves being left stranded on the side of the road by getting this free breakdown cover that we are offering in our new promotion.

"With our choice of cover options and our excellent value for money prices, we have a policy to meet the needs of every van driver. Confused.com is here to help customers get the right cover they need at the right price.

"Make sure you're shopping around using a price comparison site like Confused.com as it allows you to not only check the price but also review the benefits you can get which you may not necessarily think about until you are in an emergency situation."

About Confused.com:

Confused.com is one of the UK's biggest and most popular price comparison services. Launched in 2002, it generates over one million quotes per month. It has expanded its range of comparison products over the last couple of years to include car insurance (<http://www.confused.com/car-insurance>), life insurance (<http://www.confused.com/life-insurance>) and home insurance (<http://www.confused.com/home-insurance>). Confused.com also caters for more specialised insurances such as holiday home insurance (<http://www.confused.com/home-insurance/holiday-home>).

Confused.com is not a supplier, insurance company or broker. It provides a free, objective and unbiased comparison service. Confused.com's service is based on the most up-to-date information provided by UK suppliers and industry regulators.

PR Contact:

Sarah Wenham

Confused.com press office

Friary House

Greyfriars Road

Cardiff

CF10 3AE

02920 434275

www.confused.com

