Leading UK outsourcer, Ant, has been named finalist for Outsourcing Service Provider of the Year for its work with British Gas and Nespresso and also for its innovative Corporate Social Responsibility programme at the 2012 EOA Awards.

Ant, who was recently ranked one of the top UK contact centre outsourcers in the 2012 league tables published by Marketing magazine, currently employs over 450 people across its 4 contact centre sites.

Liam Smith, Strategic Development Director, comments; "We are delighted to have our corporate social responsibility programme and all of the hard work our employees do for the local community recognised by the industry. We are also extremely pleased to be regarded as one of the UK's leading service providers for the great work we do for some of today's leading brands. As the Deputy Prime Minister, Nick Clegg, recently commented, Ant is really going from strength to strength".

Ant provides innovative customer contact programmes (<http://www.antmarketing.com>) that produce results.
