Freight haulage to Italy specialists Groupage Express are taking a stand in raising haulage price quoting standards by giving instant quote fixed prices per pallet.

Customers of many international haulage companies have noticed in recent years that the price they initially quoted ends up being much higher due to hidden extras, fuel surcharges and surcharges for transporting hazardous materials.

Adrian Keeling Managing Director of Cheshire based freight to Italy specialist haulage company (<http://www.groupage-express.co.uk>) Groupage Express believes that most UK business customers are frustrated by a lack of clarity in quotes for haulage services.

Adrian says "When I get a quote for something I don't expect to have to pay lots more money on top. Businesses need to be able to plan their finances especially in tough times".

He adds "That's why I'm offering a much simpler, more transparent alternative to what appears to be the norm – I'm offering an instant quote fixed price per pallet, no hidden extras, it's as simple as that – THAT I believe is a real quote".

Groupage Express also believe that business customers would be shocked to discover that some freight forwarders use 3rd parties or even sell the movement of their customer's freight to the lowest bidder in the Internet.

Groupage Express point out that they always use their own system and vehicles because this offers high levels of control and quality of service. "We don't take risks with our customers' freight and we believe that the advantage of our system is that it brings customer, transport and end client together in a clear, effective, and efficient way" says Adrian.

Groupage Express offer British businesses in all industry sectors daily freight haulage services to and from Italy (<http://www.groupage-express.co.uk>) including hazardous shipments. Customers have the added re-assurance of guaranteed Free Delivery of any freight to Italy goods damaged whilst in transit on any of their vehicles.
