LONDON (6 September 2012) — The October 2012 issue of the 180-page National Geographic Traveller (UK), which includes a South America special, has hit the newsstands.

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Cover Story: South America — Explore the spirit and adventure of South America in our cover story, taking you on a musical tour of Colombia, a literary journey of Patagonia, a cultural pilgrimage to Cusco and much, much more.

Destinations: Discover seclusion on a sojourn down Kerala's backwaters, uncover Cambodia's cultural landscape, from conceptual art galleries to renegade chefs; and take your pick from the best ski slopes this winter. Finally, take a pictorial tour of Tunisia's Djerba.

Also in this issue:

Cities: Embrace the kooky culture of Tokyo; while Belfast is a city on the up.

Smart Traveller: Live like a local in Vienna; enjoy Sonoma's exquisite wine and cuisine; and discover our recommendations for Sydney hotels.

Interview: Fiery chef Marco Pierre White reveals his fear of flying and his love of Jamaica.

Author series: Novelist, poet and playwright Simon Armitage explains how the Yorkshire Moors have inspired his latest project.

Travel Talk: Ask the experts about your travel dilemmas: visiting Zimbabwe; airline delays; package and DIY holidays; and taking the train to the slopes.

Real Life: How travel companies are tailoring personalised advice based on your social media profiles.

And can an amateur sailor compete in the one of the world's biggest yacht races.

National Geographic Traveler (USA) is the world's most widely read travel magazine, created in 1984. It championed sustainable travel before it was cool and, eight times annually, celebrates journeys that are about place, experience, culture, authenticity, living like the locals and great photography. It makes a distinction between tourism and travel and stresses inquisitive, not acquisitive, trips. It employs storytelling and outstanding photography to inspire readers to pick up and go, eschewing fashion and fluff in favour of articles that offer a strong sense of place, inspiring narratives that make readers take trips, and solid service information to help them plan those trips.

The National Geographic Society is one of the world's largest nonprofit scientific and educational organisations. Founded in 1888 to "increase and diffuse geographic knowledge," the Society's mission is to inspire people to care about the planet. National Geographic reflects the world through its magazines, television programs, films, music and radio, books, DVDs, maps, exhibitions, live events, school publishing programs, interactive media and merchandise. National Geographic magazine, the Society's official journal, published in English and 33 local-language editions, is read by more than 40 million people each month. The National Geographic Channel reaches 370 million households in 34 languages in 168 countries. National Geographic Digital Media receives more than 15 million visitors a month. National Geographic has funded more than 9,600 scientific research, conservation and exploration projects and supports an education program promoting geography literacy.
