US and Canadian provider takes first step into Europe with state of the art Bracknell facility

BRACKNELL, UK, Sept 12th 2012 – CentriLogic (<http://www.centrilogic.com/>), a leading provider of data centre solutions to global enterprises, has launched its European expansion program with the opening of a multi-million pound, cloud-capable, high density, and highly secure data centre in Bracknell. From this state of the art facility, CentriLogic will provide global enterprises with Infrastructure-as-a-Service solutions, including cloud computing, hybrid hosting, managed hosting, and high-power co-location.

CentriLogic's European expansion program was developed to fulfill the increasing demand from current and future customers requiring comprehensive managed IT outsourcing solutions in Europe. The facility is also conveniently located near the numerous high-tech companies that populate the Thames Valley region, which is often dubbed the United Kingdom's "Silicon Valley."

Robert Offley, CEO, CentriLogic comments, "CentriLogic's new Bracknell data centre has been engineered to support high density applications, and contains industry-leading power, network, security, and heating/cooling infrastructure. Our investment in Bracknell enables us to accommodate customers from the Thames Valley, London, and surrounding areas, while also supporting our North American enterprise and SaaS customers who have complex intercontinental hosting requirements."

The Bracknell, UK data centre significantly expands CentriLogic's international footprint, adding to its existing interconnected data centres located in Southern Ontario, Canada, and Western New York, USA. CentriLogic is currently looking into acquiring a secondary data centre in the United Kingdom followed by further expansion throughout Continental Europe.

About CentriLogic

CentriLogic is a trusted provider of international hybrid hosting, cloud computing, co-location, and data centre solutions for organisations that gain advantage by outsourcing their hosting requirements, with global headquarters in Canada and data centre facilities throughout North American and Europe. Unlike other hosting companies, CentriLogic uses insights derived from a customer-first philosophy to deliver a broad range of agile and elastic solutions designed to meet evolving IT infrastructure outsourcing needs.
