Chinoiserie at Jumeirah Carlton Tower continues its partnership with Eric Lanlard by unveiling its new 'I Love Paris' afternoon tea. The tantalising menu, inspired by the master patissier's favourite city, is the third installment in the 'Afternoon Tea by Eric Lanlard' series.

The 'I Love Paris' menu will feature classic French staples: brioche, macarons and mini eclairs, all of which Eric Lanlard has elegantly re-invented to bring a touch of Parisian chic to Chinoiserie. "Paris is my favourite city in the world to visit this season," said Eric. "The inspiration behind this tea comes from the iconic Grandes Patisseries in the city and their unmistakable scents."

The experience begins with savoury delights such as brioche filled with pâté de foie gras, lemon and poppy seed smoked salmon macaroon and mini quiche lorraine. Then, to satisfy sweet-toothed aficionados, a selection of cakes and pastries including Le Magnum, a dark chocolate mousse based on the famous ice cream, and Crème Brûlée Tonka, a bean infused dessert topped with caramelised demerara sugar and fresh raspberries.

Customers defeated by their tea will be treated to a 'Take Home Box' of leftovers on departure, ensuring tea-lovers can take the enjoyment of this experience home with them.

As one of the world's most renowned patissiers and star of Channel 4's Baking Mad series, Eric has amassed a global fan base and a dedicated celebrity following.

Chinoiserie at Jumeirah Carlton Tower provides the perfect backdrop for afternoon tea with its sophisticated, classic-contemporary décor. A new twist on the 'Afternoon Tea by Eric Lanlard' series will be presented seasonally throughout 2012-2013 for hotel guests and visitors to enjoy.
