Cardiff UK 9th October 2012 – pointOne (<http://www.pointone-epos.co.uk>) is pleased to announce that one of its customers has been awarded a prestigious Catey Award. Abergavenny-based The Hardwick, whose Chef Patron is Stephen Terry (who previously worked with Marco Pierre White), has been awarded the Catey Independent Restaurateur Award 2012. The Catey Awards which have been described as the industry's equivalent to the Oscars recognises and celebrates the individuals, businesses and teams who shape the Hospitality industry.

Thrilled with the award Stephen Terry said "We have had a fantastic year and everyone has worked very hard to achieve this accolade and we would like to thank all the team for their dedication".

Mr Terry says that one of the pleasures of living in South Wales is the quality of local produce which has been a major contributor to the restaurant's success. Many of the restaurants ingredients sourced locally are credited on the menu.

He continued "I would like to thank all of our suppliers; including our technology partner pointOne EPoS who deliver all the tools my restaurant needs to serve both my customers and my business better"

PointOne EPoS helps to serve restaurants better by:

- Enhanced customer service
- Ease of use reduces training and errors
- Automated & comprehensive customer billing
- Security and accountability
- Discourages fraud
- Improved management reporting
- Improved stock control
