London, UK – November 5th , 2012 - Thriving technology company Kainos is today celebrating award success having won 'Enterprise CMS of the Year' for its Evolve® Electronic Medical Record (EMR) solution at the 2012 DM Awards in London last Thursday.

At the glittering, black-tie awards evening held at the Russell Hotel, Evolve beat off stiff competition to win this much coveted award category. Evolve is Kainos's flagship EDM and workflow solution targeting the healthcare sector and has achieved phenomenal success since its launch two years ago.

Now live at six major UK hospitals, with three - Clatterbridge Centre for Oncology NHS Foundation Trust, Bradford Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, and Lancashire Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust - having completed their implementations in the last few months, Evolve is delivering transformational change across a number of UK Trusts in a very efficient and direct way. The DM award is a further and very timely endorsement of this success.

Developed in partnership with NHS clinicians and managers, Evolve EMR is a sophisticated workflow, e-forms and reporting platform, accelerating healthcare processes and ensuring they are completed systematically. An intuitive visual dashboard displays a patient's status and medical history, ensuring that no background information or vital step in providing care is missed.

Now in their sixth year, the Document Manager Awards recognise the best products, services and companies in the UK document and content management industry. Entries are evaluated by an independent judging panel of industry experts, with many categories open to public voting.

Deirdre O'Neill, head of Kainos Evolve, says, "What a wonderful achievement for everyone in the Evolve team. To be recognised in the DM industry as the best enterprise CMS is a real honour and one that reflects our relentless focus on quality and continuous product improvement." Deirdre continues, "We enjoy wonderful support from our customers and our launch partner Ipswich Hospital NHS Trust in particular and this continues to play a key role in Evolve's success."
