The London Underground celebrates its 150 year anniversary in 2013. To commemorate this milestone Chisel & Mouse (<http://www.chiselandmouse.com>) have produced architectural models of their most iconic stations.

Chisel & Mouse have recreated a 'classic' station from each of the Underground's three distinct architectural eras in detailed miniature form.

From the pioneer period of the late nineteenth century Chisel & Mouse have chosen Charles W. Clark's long and sleek Farringdon Station (<http://www.chiselandmouse.com/farringdon-station-architectural-model.html>) to model.

They have selected Mornington Crescent Station (<http://www.chiselandmouse.com/farringdon-station-architectural-model.html>) from the expansion phase of the early twentieth century designed by Leslie Green's in the 'Arts and Crafts' style.

From the 1930's 'golden period' of design, Chisel & Mouse have modeled the eye-catching Sudbury Town Station (<http://www.chiselandmouse.com/sudbury-town-station-architectural-model.html>).

The models each cost £129, they are available from various outlets including the London Transport Museum shop and www.chiselandmouse.com (<http://www.chiselandmouse.com>).

We will be continuing to produce models of the nations favourite Underground stations throughout the anniversary year, please let us know if there is a particular station on your wish list.
