London, 21 February 2013 – Gold-i, the multi-award winning trading systems integrator, has announced that Nomura has chosen to partner with the Gold-i Gate Bridge platform to strengthen its retail FX offering.

The Gold-i Gate Bridge is recognised as a leading super low latency smart routing product available anywhere within the market place today. It is highly scalable and works with any asset class in retail and institutional trading, on a global basis.

Mark Burroughs, Head of EMEA Electronic FX Sales & Distribution at Nomura, said: “Providing liquidity to MetaTrader users directly through the Gold-i Gate Bridge allows us to broaden our reach with the retail community and ultimately means we can provide a better price offering to our clients.”

Tom Higgins, CEO of Gold-i commented: “The Gold-i Gate Bridge reduces latency and processing costs for liquidity providers and provides retail brokers with a wealth of liquidity options. Thanks to our new partnership with Nomura, we now offer 31 liquidity providers via the Gold-i Gate Bridge. This is the largest choice available from any bridge which connects MetaTrader.”
