

Chef and Griddle reporting even greater success in 2013 for their hog roast hire services.

Submitted by: Chef & Griddle

Thursday, 27 June 2013

Regardless of the occasion or location, if you are looking to host any event it is highly important that you take into consideration the wonders of hog roast catering (<http://www.chefandgriddle.co.uk>). Hog roasts can work wonderfully for absolutely any event and really can provide guests with food more succulent than they could have imagined and in the most amazing visually stimulating way possible.

Chef and Griddle are a company operated by a team of seasoned griddle chefs and catering specialists with many years experience under their belts. Providing high quality hog roast hire services to clients, both domestic and corporate, they are a company that understand the need for quality and refinement, not only in the foods they present but the machines used to cook entire hogs at a time.

A spokesperson for Chef and Griddle remarked on the sheer flexibility of their services as being a key to their increased success in 2013, stating: "If you are in a position where you are looking to transform an event into something completely marvellous, hog roast catering from Chef and Griddle really could be an amazing solution for you to opt for." He followed by saying, "The presence of a hog roast in full display not only creates a wonderful talking point for guests but provides a full sensory delight for them, with excellent aromas filling the air, tempting your taste buds even further..."

Not only being incredibly tasty and desirable it is also very affordable, especially when planning a reception meal for a wedding or corporate event. Nothing short of perfect and not costing ridiculously high prices, a hog roast wins every time. No matter what the occasion is, you will not be disappointed with Chef and Griddle. Their diaries are filling up quickly for venues over the next few months and so the advice is to contact them sooner than later to check availability for your next function.

Just remember that when opting for this fabulous catering solution you will find that there are a great number of benefits; not only will you receive great tasting food at competitive prices but there are also a number of additional features you will come across. Enabling guests to observe the cooking process not only builds up their appetite, hog roast catering brings an audience together, creating a great point of discussion amongst individuals, tempted by terrific sights and aromas. For many it can bring out past memories of camp fires and cooking outdoors.

Offering a wide selection of menus and additional side dishes for any occasion, contact Chef and Griddle now by visiting their website at www.chefandgriddle.co.uk.

For quotes, contact Helen by sending an email to sales@chefandgriddle.co.uk or by calling freephone 0800 634 9939 or the mobile on 07837 349 434 today.