A leading Scotland based web hosting company is making a great offer available to people looking for a new company to host their website.

Kirkcaldy based UKHost4U are well known in the hosting industry for offering a comprehensive range of hosting solutions to meet almost any company's or individual's needs and they are hopeful that this latest offer is going to be the incentive that people need to finally move their website hosting.

'We know that people are always on the lookout for a great deal these days and that applies to things like web hosting as well as everything else', explained a spokesperson for UKHost4U. 'That's why we decided to put in place what we think is an unbeatable offer on hosting. If you buy website hosting (<http://www.ukhost4u.co.uk/>) from us for two years, we will give you a third year free. We think it's a great saving and one that will surely encourage many website owners to move their hosting.

This special offer from UKHost4U gives people the chance to take advantage of the great service and reliability that the company is known for, and that the company's any satisfied clients can already vouch for. With so many companies offering hosting these days, the company believes that you need to look for somewhere with staying power and a long proven record before you take a chance.

'UKHost4U has been in operation since 1999, and that means that we have been at the heart of the incredible growth of the internet and the web', explained a company spokesman. 'We have seen the web grow into the hub of businesses and communication that is today. It also means that we have been there all that time to meet our customers' needs and never let them down. With hosting, that is so important because unreliability with hosting can mean serious amounts of lost business.'

In addition to traditional hosting solutions, UKHost4U offer many other professional services including virtual private servers, dedicated servers, web site building and much more, all underpinned by the company's legendary reliability. If you are interested in web hosting from UKHost4U and their limited period special buy 2 get 1 year free offer, or indeed any of the other services that the company has to offer then why not visit the company website today and have a look for yourself.
