This week, celebrity Chef Heston Blumenthal announced his new restaurant will open a new London Heathrow Airport's T2 in June next year and with so many top restaurants now available at airports around the world, OneTwoTrip (<http://www.onetwotrip.co.uk/>) picks out its top dining experiences for global travellers.

Celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay opened Plane Food at Heathrow's Terminal 5, in 2008, at a cost of £2.5m and has been serving up culinary treats for passengers ever since. Serving European cuisine, one of its most popular and unique products is its 'picnic boxes' which offers people that don't have time to sit down to eat, the chance to take-away some of the chefs delicious food to enjoy onboard the aircraft.

Recently named the best airport restaurant in the world by The Daily Meal, Porta Gaig at Barcelona Airport offers flying diners modern Catalan dishes with excellent ingredients and Chef Carles Gaig's signature flare. Located in Terminal One, this amazing restaurant gives diners a fabulous dining experience with first class service in beautiful surroundings.

Jamie Oliver at Gatwick gives travellers the chance to treat themselves at Jamie's Italian Bakery, enjoy a drink at Union Jacks Bar or enjoy a sit down meal at Jamie's Italian. The restaurant was officially opened last year and serves up traditional dishes and a few British favorites such as The Full Monty breakfast.

If you find yourself with an hour or so to spare at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport and fancy tasting some of the local fare, you should try the raw herrings with fresh bread and onions at Bubbles Seafood and Wine Bar. Regarded as one of the best airport restaurants in the world by The Daily Meal, the restaurant is a favorite amongst frequent flyers who not only enjoy the quality food, but also the bubbly.
