Online gambling experts Jackpot247 have responded to the news of multi-language mobile gambling games from software providers Microgaming.

One of the world's leading gaming software providers, Microgaming, have become the first company of their kind to offer games in multiple languages, releasing their mobile games in a variety of tongues such as Dutch, German and Russian. This means that their existing games will be available to enjoy for many more people around the world, and those living in countries such as Germany, Russia and Holland can play.

This is a first in the software development industry, with Microgaming the first company to offer their mobile casino games (<http://www.jackpot247.com/mobile>) in multiple languages, and some online casinos have already launched multi-lingual games on mobile platforms. The move is expected to spread across the rest of the online casino and mobile gambling industries in the coming months and into 2014.
