

Rare Star Trek Movie Props collection discovered in the UK

Submitted by: The Original Memorabilia Company

Friday, 4 July 2014

| OFFICIAL PRESS RELEASE | THE ORIGINAL MEMORABILIA COMPANY | 4/7/14 |

A collection of stunning props from the Star Trek movies has surfaced in the UK and will go on sale at www.originalmemorabilia.co.uk from Friday 11th July 2014.

The collection includes pistols and phasers from The Undiscovered Country back to a 30 year old phaser from Star Trek II The Wrath of Khan with price tags ranging from £100 to £5,000 for an original piece of sci-fi history.

Klingon fans will be thrilled to see the still working Tricorder and Klingon Pump Shotgun-style disruptor pistol from Star Trek VI which come with the ultimate provenance having been fully authenticated by the original Star Trek prop maker Richard Coyle of RAC Props.

Benjamin Sach of The Original Memorabilia Company said “scarcely do you see Star Trek items of this quality come up for sale in the UK. I am sure there will be a lot of interest from all around the world”.

About The Original Memorabilia Company

The Original Memorabilia Company are based near London in the United Kingdom and specialise in unique original memorabilia and collectable investments and are publishers of museum quality official limited edition prints of classic moments from British television signed by the celebrity subject. The legendary John Cleese signing the latest 2 editions from the Monty Pythons classic Ministry of Silly Walks sketch. Other editions have included the Two Ronnies celebrated Fork Handles sketch, Don't Mention the War from Dads Army and many more.

For further information please contact:

sales@originalmemorabilia.co.uk

www.originalmemorabilia.co.uk