LONDON (4 December 2014) — The Jan/Feb 2015 issue of the 196-page National Geographic Traveller (UK) has hit the newsstands with a free copy of National Geographic Traveller - Family.

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

Cover Story: Where have you got your sights set on this year? What will make or break your next escape? Take some travel inspiration from our cover story The Cool List this month — a rundown of places our travel writers will be covering in 2015.

Destinations: We plot a course to the home of tea, Darjeeling, in search of India's finest brew; and cruise down the mighty Mekong — the lifeblood of Southeast Asia — from the intriguing port of Phnom Penh to the spirited streets of Ho Chi Minh City. Our South Africa feature, meanwhile, takes us into the bush and to the domain of some of the greatest wildlife viewing in all of Africa — Greater Kruger.

Cities: Elsewhere, we reveal the best drinking dens, digs and foodie haunts in Palma and Rome, and we scour the hotels of LA to bring you the sleeper's guide to La La Land.

Smart Traveller: Discover Bangkok's best food, hotels under £100 in Perth and Goa's highlights. Plus, why you should go to Utah, columns and checklists.

Author Series: Ramita Navai on Tehran.

Travel Talk: Ask the experts about your travel dilemmas.

Features: We send one of our contributing editors to Kenya for an endurance test like no other — the annual Safaricom Marathon, pushing runners across the undulating hills of the Lewa Wildlife Conservancy.

FREE National Geographic Traveller - Family: Oodles of great ideas to help you make your mind up, from the Caribbean to Italy, the UK, theme park trips and more.

Two great competitions

Azores: We've teamed up with SATA International and Original Diving to offer you the chance to win a seven-night trip for two to the Azores.

National Geographic Traveler (USA) is the world's most widely read travel magazine, created in 1984. It championed sustainable travel before it was cool and, eight times annually, celebrates journeys that are about place, experience, culture, authenticity, living like the locals and great photography. It makes a distinction between tourism and travel and stresses inquisitive, not acquisitive, trips. It employs storytelling and outstanding photography to inspire readers to pick up and go, eschewing fashion and fluff in favour of articles that offer a strong sense of place, inspiring narratives that make readers take trips, and solid service information to help them plan those trips.

The National Geographic Society is one of the world's largest non-profit scientific and educational organisations. Founded in 1888 to "increase and diffuse geographic knowledge," the member-supported Society's mission is to inspire people to care about the planet. Through its online community members can get closer to explorers and photographers, connect with other members around the world and help make a difference. National Geographic reflects the world through its magazines, television programs, films, books, DVDs, radio, maps, exhibitions, live events, school publishing programs, interactive media and merchandise. National Geographic magazine, the Society's official journal, published in English and 39 local-language editions, is read by more than 60 million people each month. The National Geographic Channel reaches 440 million households in 171 countries in 48 languages. National Geographic Digital Media receives more than 27 million visitors a month. National Geographic has funded more than 10,000 scientific research, conservation and exploration projects and supports an education programme promoting geography literacy.
