

New UKIP secret weapon to woo voters

Submitted by: Giftpoint Ltd

Wednesday, 25 March 2015

Political party advertising is a turn off for most of the regular population.

UKIP has a new secret weapon to 'switch on' voters to their message.

The amazingly engaging LOGOLOOP ®

UKIP donor , Millionaire entrepreneur & ex bookmaker Alan Bown has donated 100,000 LOGOLOOP's for the forthcoming UKIP election campaign.

View the UKIP LOGOLOOP movie --https://youtu.be/6aFEWJdCK_s

UKIP is the 'first mover' in Political parties to harness the power of multisensory haptical interaction using LOGOLOOP .

It's a scientifically proven phenomenon that messages we touch which are innovative and creative ,

We will learn & remember much more quickly , compared with messages we merely see or hear.

Logoloop claims , First you touch , Then you play , Then you remember ..

Most people will certainly attest to its addictive playful qualities ...once you start playing with the LOGOLOOP®

It is really difficult to put it down.....

incredibly people are very happy to repeat the experience of being advertised to over and over again .

World famous marketing Guru Martin Lindstrom says haptical marketing, or communicating your message through the sense of touch is the next big thing in marketing communication.

Ukip are certainly hoping the LOGOLOOP ® will help them get their message across to voters on the Seventh of May !

For more information and scientifically referenced information about LOGOLOOP®

Visit <http://www.logoloop.eu>

Or contact the author Ross Thompson

07776 204040

ross@giftpoint.co.uk

free samples of UKIP LOGOLOOP on request