LONDON (2 December 2015) — Do you dream of shooting for the UK's best-loved travel magazine? National Geographic Traveller's annual Photography Competition aims to find the best new talent and send winners on an amazing photographic commission to destinations including Tanzania, Vietnam and Iceland. With the deadline – 13 December – looming, this is a final call for entries to all photographers from amateur, to mobile, to professional.

Selected entrants will be included in a global press and media campaign and have their work exhibited at London's theprintspace in March 2016, ensuring major exposure to the creative industry.

This year, the categories include:

Photography

Upload a single shot in one of four themes: Action, Nature, People, Urban.

NEW: Video

Send us your YouTube/Vimeo link to a 60-second video clip.

NEW: Portfolio

Upload four shots based on a single subject.

NEW: Mobile

Upload a single shot taken on a smartphone.

(For the Video, Portfolio and Mobile categories, as long as the image is travel-based, the subject matter can be of the photographer's choosing.)

National Geographic Traveler (USA) is the world's most widely read travel magazine, created in 1984. It championed sustainable travel before it was cool and, eight times annually, celebrates journeys that are about place, experience, culture, authenticity, living like the locals and great photography. It makes a distinction between tourism and travel and stresses inquisitive, not acquisitive, trips. It employs storytelling and outstanding photography to inspire readers to pick up and go, eschewing fashion and fluff in favour of articles that offer a strong sense of place, inspiring narratives that make readers take trips, and solid service information to help them plan those trips.

The National Geographic Society is one of the world's largest non-profit scientific and educational organisations. Founded in 1888 to "increase and diffuse geographic knowledge," the Society's mission is to inspire people to care about the planet. National Geographic reflects the world through its magazines, television programs, films, music and radio, books, DVDs, maps, exhibitions, live events, school publishing programs, interactive media and merchandise. National Geographic magazine, the Society's official journal, published in English and 33 local-language editions, is read by more than 40 million people each month. The National Geographic Channel reaches 370 million households in 34 languages in 168 countries. National Geographic Digital Media receives more than 15 million visitors a month. National Geographic has funded more than 9,600 scientific research, conservation and exploration projects and supports an education program promoting geography literacy.
