January 2017, Mayflex (https://www.mayflex.com/news/mayflex-finalist-%E2%80%98distributor-year%E2%80%99-0) the distributor of Converged IP Solutions is a finalist in the Network Computing Awards, Distributor of the Year, category. The Network Computing Awards have been running for over 10 years and are particularly meaningful as they are voted for by the readers of Network Computing magazine - the people who are dealing with their distribution partners products and services every day.

The awards were set up to recognise the companies, products and services in the industry that have most impressed the readers and will take place on the 30th March in London.

Andrew Percival, Managing Director at Mayflex commented, "I am delighted that Mayflex has once again been recognised by the readers of Network Computing magazine and has made it as a finalist in the Distributor of the Year category. Mayflex continues to put a focus on the service we provide our customers which has enabled us to become a leader in our market. We also offer a wide choice of products, additional value add services and free training courses to help develop our customers knowledge levels, helping them to maximise all available opportunities."

Andrew continued, "It is fantastic that we have received this nomination in 2017 as we are celebrating a significant milestone this year, our 100th anniversary. Our customers are key to our success and we've worked with many of them for numerous years, in some cases 20 years or more, so to win this award would really be the icing on the cake and a recognition of this."
