See pdf for modern clean beauty images.

Watch this 2 min film (<http://www.vanzeebeauty.com/win-a-clean-beauty-masterclass>) to hear why fashion and celebrity make up artist Nat van Zee offers expert help with choosing clean beauty.

On average, a woman uses 12 products a day containing 168+ chemicals. This amounts to a whopping 2.3 litres of chemicals that could travel via our skin into our bodies every year, year-on-year. Of course some chemicals are safe, but others are known toxins that may build up and compromise our health over time. Click here (<http://www.vanzeebeauty.com/why-switch>) for research sources.

VANZEE's mission is to give you transparent, better choices and show you the stuff that really is good for your skin. Step by step we can make a difference, simply by changing what we buy. Unfortunately, sourcing genuine clean beauty is no walk in the park. Unlike in food, the words 'organic' and 'natural' aren't legally defined, meaning a lot of time spent on label-scanning and reading the small print. That's where we come in.

At VANZEE beauty:

- We personally vet ingredients and beauty brand ethics.
- We select only the purest natural, organic and vegan products that perform safely whilst kind to animals and the planet.
- We test every item on ourselves and models.
- We cut through the jargon and give impartial, honest advice.
- We showcase on trend beauty looks with easy how-to tutorials, beauty tips and product information.
- We fast track your beauty detox with access to clean beauty heroes, from budget to luxury prices, available via our affiliated online shops.

" 10% global natural beauty growth with 42% consumers stating to buy natural and organic to support a cleaner environment, and 48% for health reasons. " The last decade saw a 350% increase in number of vegans.
